Monthly weighted average Crude tar price of M/s SAIL, RSP & M/s RINL through e-auction & price circular mode sold by M/s SAIL,RSP & RINL, Vizag in the month of supply (M+0) will be taken into account to calculate the variation in price of same month (i.e. from 1st to end of the month of supply), i.e. the weighted average crude tar price of May, 2024 shall be applicable for the period 1st May, 2024 to 31st May, 2024 & so on. For every Re.1 variation in price of Crude Tar, the variation in price of Liquid Coal Tar Pitch will be Rs. 1 per MT.

The suppliers will raise invoice provisionally at the price of the previous month & payment may be released on Provisional basis. After end of the month, when the applicable rate of the month is finalised, the same will be communicated to supplier & will be asked to submit supplementary Invoice / debit note (for increase in price) or Credit Note (for reduction in price) for the differential amount. In this mechanism, in case price goes down, the supplier will issue credit note for the difference in unit price.

The vendors are asked to quote the price based on weighted average price of sale of crude tar by RSP & RINL in May, 2024 which has been arrived as below:

A. Quantity sold in circular / e-auction mode by RINL= 1492 MT

Weighted average price of Crude tar sold by RINL = Rs.42,000/ MT

B. Quantity sold in circular/e-auction mode by RSP=6325.36 MT

Weighted average price of Crude tar sold by RSP = Rs.42,147 /MT

C. Weighted average crude tar price of RINL & RSP=

$$\frac{42,000 \times 1492 + 42,147 \times 6325.36}{1492 + 6325.36}$$

=Rs.42,118.94/MT

This price is applicable for supplies in the month of May, 2024 (i.e. 1st May, 2024- 31st May, 2024) & so on. The vendors are required to quote on above basis. Price variation will be calculated w.r.t above basis.

If there is no auction in any month & crude tar weighted average price is not furnished by RSP or RINL, weighted average of any one will be taken for calculation of liquid CT Pitch price. If both prices are not available, the previous month price will be applicable.

ANNEXURE-II

STANDARD METHOD FOR SAMPLING & TESTING

(A) SAMPLING OF LIQUID PITCH :

After receipt of tankers inside plant premises, sample(s) are collected by a sample scoop by immersing it through the top opening of the tanker either from a particular height or different height of tanker. Samples are drawn in a container for a quantity in between ½ to 1 Kg in duplicate containers. Samples are collected from each tanker for different suppliers and kept with proper identification. One container with the sample is sealed by the representative of the supplier for future reference in case of joint analysis. From the other container a sample mould is prepared for immediate softening point determination. Any other parameter can also be checked, if required. After the liquid sample is solidified, the unsealed container is unpacked & the sample is taken out and preserved in polyethylene sample bag with identification of truck / tanker no. and date received.

If any time, abnormal results are found in the initial softening point determination, then individual tanker samples are checked to reconfirm the abnormal results.

Then after 10-15 days collection a composite sample is prepared by taking (approx.) equal quantity of pitch from individual tanker preserved samples for each supplier. In this composite sample if any variation (out of specification) is found in one or more parameters, further investigation will be done from individual tanker sample already preserved. As the material is fed directly to the storage tank / process and gets mixed with other supplies, no further joint sampling is possible from the consignment tanker.

(B) TOLUENE INSOLUBLE:

The sample is digested with hot toluene using a reflux condenser. The insoluble matter is filtered through G-4 crucible, washed with Acetone dried and weighed.

(C) QUINOLENE INSOLUBLE:

The sample is digested with quinolene in a water bath at 70-80 degree C. The insoluble matter is filtered through a G-4 crucible using filter pad. Residue is washed with toluene and acetone, dried and weighed.

(D) COOKING VALUE (ALCAN METHOD):

1 gram of sample is taken in a weighed porcelain crucible fitted with overlapping lids and is completely embedded by 16/65 mesh (1mm/212micron) coke fraction in a nickel crucible. The crucible with metallic support is placed in an electric furnace, controlled at 550 ± 10 deg C for 2.5 hours. After cooling down the crucible with the residue is weighed.

(E) SOFTENING POINT BY METTLER METHOD:

In this test method, the Softening Point is the temperature at which pitch suspended in a cylindrical cup (SS mould) with a 6.35 mm hole in the bottom, flows downwards a distance of 19 mm to interrupt a light beam, as the sample is heated at a linear rate in air.

Liquid pitch in hot condition is poured into a cup (SS mould) slowly until the level of pitch exceeds the upper edge of the cup keeping the tip of the container close to the top of the mould to minimize entrapment of air bubbles. The pitch in the cup (mould) is cooled until firm. The sample flush with the top of the cup (mould) is trimmed by pressing with a heated knife or spatula. The softening point is then determined by Mettler apparatus.

Mettler Softening Point Apparatus is set at a temperature 20 deg C below the expected Softening Point of the sample. The sample cup is placed in a cartridge assembly and then to the apparatus and heated in a programmed manner at the rate of 2 deg C/minute. The measurement is automatic and results of Softening Point is displayed.

(F) VISCOSITY:

Shearing is applied by rotation of a cylindro-conical barrel immersed in molten pitch in a fixed cylindrical container. The shearing strength is calculated from the measurement of the torque on the barrel in rotation.

Representative samples of Coal Tar Pitch is sampled in an oven at 150-160 deg C to bring into liquid condition or till the foam ceases. The liquid pitch is taken to fill half of the Aluminium cup or after cooling down, the sample is crushed to 1 mm size and filled to the full capacity of Aluminium cup and placed into the groove of Viscometer.

Viscosity readings are taken at 140⁰ C and 160⁰ C as per the standard procedure of Brooke field Viscometer.

(G) DENSITY (HELIUM PYCNOMETRY):

Knowing the mass of the sample, the apparatus used (Accupyc 1330, Micromeritics), determines sample volume and calculates its density.

1 mm size sample representing the composite sample is taken for this test. The measurement is done under helium gas in an ACCUPYC Pycnometer as per standard procedure.

(H) ASH CONTENT IN PITCH:

The sample is weighed before and after complete combustion in air at 700 deg C. Place about 5-10 grams of sample is heated on a hot plate initially to remove the oil and then placed in muffle furnace at 350 deg C. The furnace temperature is raised progressively from 350 deg C to 700 deg C. Maintain the crucible and the test sample in the muffle furnace set at 700 deg C until a constant weight is obtained.

(I) PITCH IMPURITIES CONTENT BY XRF:

The concentration of the different impurities is determined using X-ray fluorescence spectrometry (XRF).

(J) C/H IN PITCH AND ALPHA RESIN:

C/H in Pitch and Alpha resin will be determined as per the standard procedure of LECO CHN Analyser.

(K) MESOPHASE:

The amount and size of mesophase in Pitch will be estimated as per ASTM-D4616 method by an optical microscope using reflected light.
