Congress challenges PM Modi on 'Urban Naxals' label

STATESMAN NEWS SERVICE
New Delhi, 20 January

The Congress on Tuesday intensified its criticism of Prime Minister Narendra Modi over his reference to "urban naxals" with senior party leader Jairam Ramesh questioning whether the term is now being broadly applied to all government critics despite the Union Home Ministry previously disowning it.

In a post on X, Ramesh highlighted a contradiction between the prime minister's recent remarks and the government's official position in Parliament. "The PM spoke today about the threat from what he called 'urban naxals'. Yet, on 11 March, 2020, the Minister of State for Home Affairs clarified in the Rajya Sabha that the Union Home Ministry does not use the phrase "urban naxals". Ramesh recalled that on 29 April, 2024, PM Modi had accused those calling for a caste census and raising concerns about economic inequality of harboring an

"urban naxal mindset". Ramesh questioned: "Will the PM clarify, or does he believe that anyone opposing him is an urban naxal?"

These comments came amid renewed political debate following the prime minister's warning about ideological threats from "urban naxals", a term often used to describe alleged sympathisers of left-wing extremism in urban settings.

However, the government has historically maintained a clear distinction between armed left-wing extremism — commonly known as Naxalism or Maoism — and legitimate political dissent. In March 2020, the Ministry of Home Affairs formally stated in the Rajya Sabha that it does not officially use "urban naxals", while acknowledging Maoist efforts to expand into cities.

Congress has repeatedly accused the BJP-led government of using such terminology to delegitimise dissent and social justice demands, including calls for a caste census and discussions on inequality. The BJP argues that these criticisms overlook critical national security issues and the ideological foundations of extremism.

Ramesh's recent remarks emphasize the opposition's effort to frame the Prime Minister's statements as an attack on democratic dissent, pressing the government to clarify whether "urban naxal" is an official classification or a political label aimed at silencing critics.

Nitin Nabin's leadership to give BJP fresh momentum, says Chhattisgarh CM Vishnu Deo Sai

Raipur, 20 January

Chhattisgarh Chief Minister Vishnu Deo Sai welcomed the unanimous election of Nitin Nabin as the national president of the Bharatiya Janata Party on Tuesday, expressing confidence that his tenure would energise the organisation and strengthen its commitment to national service.

In a message issued after the announcement, Sai said that under the guidance of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Nabin's leadership would provide renewed organisational direction and reinforce the party's focus on governance, discipline and public welfare. He described the development as a significant moment for the BJP at the national level.

The Chief Minister said Nabin's organisational experience, administrative acumen and sustained engagement with party workers would help the BJP respond effectively to emerging political challenges.

The affadavit filed by Inspector General of Prisons Suhas Warke said Salem was an "international gangster" who had been indulging in criminal activities for decades. It added that Salem was extradited from Portugal under an extradition treaty between that country and India. "If the petitioner (Salem) is granted parole, then he will abscond again, as even in 1993 he fled the country," the affidavit said.

It emphasised that the Government of India is under an obligation to stick to the conditions and assurances given to the Government of Portugal at the time of Salem's extradition.

Salem had filed the petition in December 2023 seeking parole as his elder brother, Abu Hakim Ansari, passed away in November 2025. He had said his plea was delayed due to the Christmas court vacation.

He had initially applied for an emergency 14-day parole from the jail authorities to attend the last rites and related rituals of his brother on November 15, 2025. However, the same was rejected by an order dated November 20, 2025, his petition stated.
